Entered at the Postoffice at New

The paper today is a good one. We would have been glad if our friends the advertiser would not wait until the day we go to press to give us the copy for their ads but we try to handle them any way and have no quarrel with them.

Read 'em all. They contain good information for you. There is Minnaugh with a page to tell you of the many bargains that he has. And there is Caldwell and Haliwanger with a whole lot of good things for the ladies. And Sanders is still running his bargain sale. And the new proprietors of the Carolina Cash company have something to say that is interesting and don't forget that Copeland Brothers are still on deck in the daylight store. And there are others that will interest you. In fact it is a good paper that we print today if we do say it for ourselves. And we may be a little late in order to accommodate our advertisers but they are our friends. And we stick to our friends. And don't forget the demonstration at West-Martin's. And of course you will not fail to look at the Maxwell and Jeans Jewelry store and all the rest of 'em.

OLD FOLKS DAY AT ZION WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Southern soldiers fought the whole world for 4 years, that Germany, in the present gigantic struggle, would likely be able to continue fighting the entire world for ten years and that, if men who fought so stubbornly and so bravely for country, would fight as valiantly for Christ, the world would soon be evangelized.

Prof. Monts' address was full of life and humor and good, hard common sense. He spoke of the old people whom he could name who once lived in this community, but with a few exceptions, they had passed to their reward. He thought it a good idea to look into the future, live in the present and recall the past but not to brood over it. We, all of us, old folks as well as young, are living in the present and we are compelled to accept the modern ways of living; that modern ideas and inventions, which have so changed old ways of living, is no indication that the world is going to wreck and ruin. While there were some modern innovations that were quite as objectionable as some of the old fashioned and out-of-date ideas, we must maintain a balance between extremes in either direction. The speaker once more grew reminiscent and referred to the old blue back speller and its landmarks as he expressed it,—"Baker," "Horse-back," "Incompatibility," "Incomprehensibility," etc. For the same reason, he said, that he wouldn't go back to the oxcart he would not return to the old school books and old, and antiquated school methods of teaching. At this point the speaker paused and said that he did not wish to be misunderstood concerning what he was about to say—that all honest work is honorable and that it is no dishonor to any man to plow, or to perform any other labor to make a living, but a lot of people had an idea that children were born to serve their parents hence they were expected to labor and make money to the neglect of all mental training. He reiterated that it was no disgrace to plow, but if you compel your boy to plow and neglect his education, you chain him to the soil and make a slave of him all the rest of his life. He closed by emphasizing the benefits and advantages of educating the young.

At this point Mr. Mills announced that the program had been completed and thanked the people for their presence in such large numbers and the speakers for their addresses. After the singing of the song, "God be With You Till We Meet Again," the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Taylor, the pastor of this church.
